

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Tom Reppert is an army veteran with a BA in English and History, as well as MAs in Creative Writing and Professional Writing. He spent twelve years in Africa and Asia teaching English Literature and Composition. Previous writing includes educational essays, short stories, a short novel titled Past Murders, and the longer work The Far Journey, a timeslip novel in which a teenage girl from the present finds herself in 1848 on the Oregon Trail. Before its official release, The Far Journey won the Idaho Writers League Novel Award. Tom lives in Sandpoint, Idaho on idyllic Lake Pend Oreille where he is currently working on his next novel, one set both in the future and the past.