

Reviews of You're the Cream in My Coffee by Jennifer Lamont Leo

"The cat's pajamas! Rich in jazzy details of 1920s Chicago, You're the Cream in My Coffee is a sparkling debut novel. With an adventurous heroine, intriguing side characters, and a thought-provoking message, this story will keep you riveted. Jennifer Lamont Leo is a name to watch in historical fiction!" -Sarah Sundin, award-winning author of Anchor in the Storm

"Every single inch of this novel is delightful. From the start Marjorie Corrigan felt like a friend, one I was glad to see each time I returned to her story. With charming characters and a plot that keeps moving, this is a novel you don't want to miss. Jennifer Lamont Leo is a fresh voice in Christian fiction. I can't wait to read more of her work." -Susie Finkbeiner, author of A Cup of Dust: A Novel of the Dust Bowl

"Cute, light and fun, a breath of fresh air from how serious historical fiction can be."

"Fun romp in the 1920's, but far from being a lighthearted book. Deep insight into a sometimes misunderstood time period." -Peter Leavell, author of West for the Black Hills

Ms. Leo has penned a wonderful story, well written and a delightful read! She clearly has a knack for relating past American culture to the reader, and I hope we see many more books from this talented author. -Jan Cline, author of Emancipated Heart
